MARQUETTE — Superior Island Lighthouse, about 12 miles north of Marquette’s Lower Harbor on Lake Superior opened its doors for its first ever public tour Thursday by members of the United States Lighthouse Society.

Almost 40 members traveled from all over the country for an ongoing tour of 33 lighthouses along the south shore of Lake Superior. The tour included a special invitation by owner Scott Holman, a retired lighthouse-owning developer and Northern Michigan University graduate, to the 147-year-old light station on Grand Island.

"Plenitude. It was just absolutely wonderful," said Mark Corp of Lan- dsoil, Ill., co-leader of the group’s Lake Superior tour.

The U.S. Lighthouse Society is a non-profit educational and historical organization incorporated to edu- cate, inform, and conserve those who escape the waves.

Corp said of the roughly 400 area residents who visited all the lighthouses in one day, the world is a member of the society.

"Grand Island is one of the most beautiful places she has ever been," Corp said.

She has done such a magnificent job of maintaining the lights on Grand Island," he added.

"It was a beautiful day for a lighthouse tour, but even in relatively mild conditions, the lake had its own impact on the group that day.

"Only about 10 people make it to shore before the Grand Island’s Holman’s azimuth 32 hour boat trip with side rails that carried the first group to the island, was punc-

Cuba set to reopen embassy

On July 15, the United Nations General Assembly's (UNGA) Committee on the Cuban Embassy in Washington, DC, will convene to discuss and vote on the resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Cuba. This move is seen as a significant step towards improving relations between the two countries, which have been estranged for decades.

The resolution, which was introduced by the Cuban delegation, would allow for the reopening of the Cuban embassy in Washington, DC, and the attendant restoration of full diplomatic relations between the two nations. The resolution also calls for the lifting of all economic and travel sanctions against Cuba. If passed, it will pave the way for the resumption of diplomatic relations and a thawing of relations between the United States and Cuba.

This development comes at a time when there is growing international pressure for the United States to ease its stance towards Cuba. Many countries, including European Union members, have already lifted their sanctions against Cuba.

The resolution is expected to be debated and voted on in the UNGA's Committee on the Cuban Embassy in Washington, DC, on July 15. If passed, it will likely be included in the UNGA's overall resolution on the U.S.-Cuba relationship, which is expected to be adopted later this year.
